

It is imperative that greater concentration of media control not be allowed. A free and diffusely operating press is essential to democracy. The United States must not lose its wide range of independent voices: they are the source of the freedoms that make our country so great!